Letter Announcement.pdf;

Dear Directors and Heads of International Relations Offices of AUN Member Universities and AUN Associate Member Universities,

Warm greetings from the ASEAN University Network (AUN) Secretariat.

We are pleased to announce the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS) Postdoctoral Fellowship for Research in Japan (Short-term (PA)) 2027/2028, which offers opportunities for eligible researchers and doctoral candidates from ASEAN Member States to undertake collaborative research at leading universities and research institutions in Japan. The Fellowship is open to all fields of research and aims to strengthen international research collaboration while supporting the professional development of researchers in the region.

On behalf of the AUN Secretariat, we kindly seek your assistance in disseminating this Fellowship opportunity through your university's communication channels, including the International Relations Office, relevant faculties, graduate schools, research institutes, and other academic units. We would also appreciate your encouragement of qualified candidates to submit their applications.

Key Fellowship Information

- Eligible applicants: Ph.D. holders and doctoral candidates expected to obtain a Ph.D. within two years (subject to the programme eligibility requirements)
- Research fields: All fields of research
- Fellowship duration: 1–12 months
- Commencement period: Between 1 July 2027 and 31 March 2028
- Application deadline: 16 November 2026
- Expected result announcement: April 2027

Please note that applicants are required to identify and obtain acceptance from a prospective host researcher in Japan prior to submitting their application. Comprehensive information on eligibility, financial support, application procedures, required documents, and other programme requirements is available in the attached guidelines.
